Reality
Prove to me you're really here.
Prove to me this isn't all just a dream.

Twin trees
reaching for the sky
one grows straight
while the other leans to the left

Each
must find its own way —
which is correct?

If we knew and made them take that way would they be better trees for it?
Or is the path
only worth the journey's effort
when they are free
to grow
their own way

LOGOS
The Eckerd College Yearbook
Box E Eckerd College St. Petersburg, Florida 33733

Hi,

As yearbook finally seems near completion, the yearbook staff wants to say a few thank yous. First of all to Keven for getting us started; then to John for keeping us going. When the going got really tough, our fearless work scholar, Maria, was there making countless phone calls and countless cups of tea. A special thanks to Carolyn and Mike (Jawbone). And also to Bob & Bob. Thank you to Dave and Tony for moral support, to Security for visiting at three in the morning, to WECR for interesting backgrounds, and especially thanks to y'all, the students, for putting up with us and our appointments. We've really appreciated your cooperation.

Sincerely,
The Yearbook Staff:
Scooter, Cliff, Cliff, & Maria
